

Capital Vault Incorporated Strategic Operations Group – Program Notes

The Strategic Operations Group, related programs, accounts and portfolios, are primarily directed to scientific and industrial experimental and applied research and development in general and advanced technologies, manufacturing capabilities and systems, the custom build options with integrated component and system development, design optimization and creating an environment where brilliant technical and inventive genius can work together on common goals and projects advancing state of the art.

The program itself has several areas of focus and involves actual specific purpose mission parameters and custom build options that are directed within a series of projects. This can be part of a larger organization or the initial start up phase that leads to growth, expansion, investment and amazing potential in everything, related to not just new and exciting, but also traditional, conventional and time tested technology.

Whether it is a product, service, process, manufacturing system or new infrastructure that enables certain things to be possible, aspects of each program is available throughout the CVI-Options to provide much more opportunity, individual interest and focus, while also capitalizing on other related projects, business and financial transactions within that particular industry or segment, that is not directly linked to the series or specific project. This reduces investment overlap considerably, as each of the CVI-Options focus on something different, independent as well as inter-dependent and provides for increased enterprise value in a self-sufficient autonomous state. So, account and portfolio summaries are like capital structure, designed to do right things, the right way for right reasons and get the right results. Direct eh!

This fundamental operational feature gives us greater peace of mind for financial and enterprise stability, as assets and resources are applied directly to that which is authorized and designated, either in accordance by the actual portfolio summary, or in the case where a Member/Co-Trustee has special instructions, a special order or otherwise.

This reduces the dilution of high powered money that may occur having an entity within an entity within an entity and so on, where the capacity for asset and resource maximization has been diminished, devitalized and basically not applied directly as much as possible in a more optimized and altruistic state. Deploying resources directly without financial leaks is essential.

Awareness of financial history may enlighten an individual on the subject in greater detail, as we are determined to excel with the kind of integrity and purpose that can build an advanced civilization with successful and rewarding personal and enterprise relationships for the long term. We expect that a culture and energy of trust, trustee, co-trustee and the inherent civilized ethics and morals of integrity, honest and straight-forward communications will be in fact in our every day individual and combined consciousness and actions, as without it, we will achieve nothing of lasting value. We cannot continue in the direction of economic, industrial, environmental and national genocide that contributes to more planetary problems.

Leadership and policy within a greater organization with the grand vision, while ensuring the moment to moment concerns and details have the infinite capacity to express themselves so that members may advance in the direction of their choosing within their comfort zone. With the intel and resources necessary to make those decisions, to permit a safe, efficient and confident course of self-directed action in a more omni-directional forward looking infrastructure at their command, this is certainly possible, practical and realistic, so that the success envisioned is rewarded beyond expectations, and that truly we will in every way, build great things together!
